Q.1: Were you able to implement the concept successfully? Yes No

Q.2: How much time did you spend on the concept's implementation? 33 min

Q.3: If not successful to implement the concept, what was the main reason in your opinion?

Lack of experience.

Not a useful template.

Not useful sample applications.

Complexity of the concept.

Other. Please specify: _____

Q.4: Did you refer to the example applications' source code to implement the concept?

No. None of them.

Yes. One of them.

Yes. Both of them.

Please specify: _____

Q.4.1: If yes, for what program statements and what kind of information?

Q.5: Overall, did you find the templates useful? If yes, in what way? If not, why?

They are useful in the sense that you don't have to dig into thousands of lines of code. Sometimes it's difficult to understand the relation between the various calls (for example you find out that there is a lot of unused code that you don't know how to integrate).

Q.6: Do you think that the format and structure of the templates are OK? If not, what are the main issues?

The main issues are the textual links that are a bit painful to follow.

Q.7: What kinds of information do you think are missing in the templates?

In the calls there is only the name of the class instead of the param name

Q.8: Overall, in the range of 1-5, how do you rank the provided template in terms of usefulness to implement the concept?

1 = Not Useful

2

3

4

5 = Excellent

Q.9: Do you have any additional comments on this experiment?
